GERTRUDE, eldest daughter of J. H. Brooke, Esq., of

H INGRONG, APRIL 26TH, 1886. In the House of Lords the Criminal Law Amendment Bill has been read a secon time and will in due course, we think there can be little doubt, pass into law. The object of the Bill is to enable, not to compel, any accused person to give evidence at any stage of the proceedings against bim. present accused persons are allowed to make a statement, but with the exception of some cases specially provided for in recent legislation, the statement is not given on oath nor in England can the person making it be subjected to cross-examination upon it. Hongkong, however, we have an Act by which a Judge or Magistrate may at any time examine an accused person and put such questions to him as he thinks fit. It is very rarely that this Act is applied; in fact it i practically a dead letter, Judges and Ma-Judges and Magistrates to believe that gistrates objecting to it on the ground, we understand, that it is un-English. The Act. which is adapted from the Indian Criminal Procedure Code, might, we believe, be apblied with much advantage in many cases, to-morrow. and the objections to it we cannot but regard as for the most part merely sentimental. Commander Roubilliard, loft here on Saturday If it could be shown that the Act would for Canton. operate prejudicially to innocent persons accused of crime the objection to it would be Hicks, from Port Hamilton 18th April, arrived fatal, but we have sufficient confi tence in our would never be allowed to have this effect, The argument that it lessens the chance of the guilty escaping is one which would probably not be formulated in those words, but which nevertheless appears to weigh con. day. siderably with some legal minds. With regard to the prosecution of crime the feelings of the lawyer are somewhat analogous to those of a sportsman with regard to his game; his object is to bring down the criminal, but to take him on the wing, and to convict a man out of his own mouth is considered to be almost as discreditable as for a sportsman to knock over his bird by a pot shot. It is not fair to innocent men and six p.m. to-morrow. that they should have their mouths closed, and as Lord MONESWELL said in the debate on the Law of Evidence Amendment Bill, to deprive been established amongst the islands of the such of the opportunity of explaining their conduct in order to screen a few guilty men who might at present escape is not a rea. Oceanic, with the American mail of the 3rd sonable mode of proceeding. During recent for this port on Saturday. years a great change has come over both popular and professional opinion in England Livingston & Co.) that the steamer Benlarig, on this subject, and the principle of allowing from Antwerp and London, left Singapore on an accused person to give evidence was recognised in the recently passed Criminal Law Amendment Act. Our local Act-the Oral Examination of Prisoners Act, 1873-allowing the Judges and Magistrates to examine prisoners, would, if applied, have very much the same effect as the Bill introduced by Lord BRAMWELL is intended to have; but, should the latter pass, the local Law Revision Committee will doubtless recommend its introduction here when they come to deal with the Ordinances governing the law as to evidence in criminal cases. There is, however, one very important difference between the two which must attract attention, and between Yokohama, Manila, and Singapore, conthat is that whereas Lord BEAMWELL'S Bill between Europe and the Far East. contemplates allowing an accused person give evidence when he chooses and subjecting him to cross-examination on such evidence when given, the Oral Examination of Chefoo Convention, together with many other Prisoners Ordinance allows the Judge or cisco, Yokohama, and Hongkong. Magistrate to put questions to the accused without any regard to whether the latter been singularly unfortunate in its steamers so may express a wish to give evidence or no continually getting aground. Recently, by way The accused person is not rendered liable to of change, the Bromo, a steemship owned by any punishment for refusing to answer or the Company, ran into the British ship Halia for answering falsely any questions so put to him, but the Ordinance says that the Mugistrate or Court of Criminal Sessions shall draw such inference as seems just from such | writer of Spring poetry. In the absence of a refusal. The distinction we have noted between the two measures is, however, more apparent than real, for as the Earl of MILLTOWN said in the debate in the House of Lords-"They were told that the Bill would not make it compulsory on the prisoner to give evidence; but if the tisement columns, a launch will leave Petmeasure became law it would be known that der's Wharf at 9.30 a.m. and 1.45 p.m. Should the prisoner could give evidence if he chose and, therefore, if he did not do so, would not the obvious inference be drawn by every jury that he was a guilty man?" both measures an inference would inevitably .. fact that while strenuous efforts have been made repeatedly to find a remedy for that dreaded isease known as beri beri and though the Medica Association at Batavia is engaged in investigating this malady snew with confident hopes, these are likely to be disappointed when one bears in mind the many fruitless endeavours to gain the same end. It is somewhat surprising that nothing has yet been apparently done to experiment with a remedy made known as far back as 1871 as being in use on the island of Dorei in New Guinea where that disease is very prevalent The Papuans there prepare the remedy by tak-ing the roots of the Kanari tree (Cannarium Communs), or, when these are wanting, the roots of the Ketapang tree (Terminalia Catappa.) These new appointment. are washed, pounded fine, soaked in cold water, and then mixed with thin slices of a polypus found on coral reefs (Nephtya Celosia) or o other varieties of the same family. A decoction of these ingredients cares the disease after a few days' application inwardly and outwardly.

The Java Bode in an article on the Nether lands outlying possessions in the Far East, states that when Bencoolen was made over by the British to the Dutch by means of the treaty of 1824, a meeting was held in the Government house there in which the oldest and most deremarkable words I protest against this transfer of my country. Who has the right to make over me and my countrymen to the Holthem go away, but I deny them the right to That piece of land is still demarcated by the original boundary stones, and that is all that the British ever got from us. We were never conquered, and I now declare to the British and power equal to my will. I would oppose the transfer sword in hand. But I am a poor man, I have no soldiers to fight with you, and must submit. God's will be done!"

Ho Atai, married woman, was charged with having unlawfully detained by force a girl named Lau Acheung, eight years of age, with intent to deprive her parents of her custody on the 25th January last: The evidence was to the effect that the child lived in Caine-road with her mother, Hung Achoi, and the defendant wasknown to them. On the 25th January last the girl was missed, and after making investigations the mother discovered that she was at a place called Sam Chung in the Sun On District. She went there to release the child, but she had to pay a ransom of $46 before she could recover her. On getting back the child the latter stated that the defendant had met her in the street, and had enticed her away by promising to get her something nice to eat, and had then removed her out of the colony. Upon this information the prisoner was arrested.

The prisoner was convicted and sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

The Telegrap's calls his speech a lecture and "a sound castigration administered to the luckless Howard Vincent and an opposition almost too much astonished to days latter General Sherrington surprised 4,000 grean." The Tory Post is bitter on the speech, describing the Premier as violating etiquette in allowing the War Minister to answer Mr. Vincent and using the "language of passion, sarcasm and abuse." Even the Liberal News describes the speech as one " of extraordinary vehemence." LONDON, 23rd March.

It is now declared that Premier Gladstone, in his scheme, proposes the appointment of a Commission of experts to fix the value of the various land properties in Ireland, which, at these valuations, are to be handed over to the possesvaluations, are to be handed over to the possession of the Government in exchange for consols. In this way Ireland will be made a debtor to the empire for the entire amount paid to the land-lords together with interest, the whole sum to be repaid into the Imperial Treasury by Ireland in instalments within fifty years, at the end of which time lessees are to become owners. This plan involves a domestic arrangement, between the Government of Ireland and the tensants, Ireland becoming the tensants of the ampire and interest of the control of the tensants, Ireland becoming the tensants of the ampire and interest of the tensants, Ireland becoming the tensants of the ampire and interest of the tensants of the constant of the tensants, Ireland becoming the tensants of t Iroland becoming the tenant of the empire and sub-letting to the occupiers at sums whose aggremeanwhile the country suffers. > BRIGANDAGE EXTRAORDINARY IN BICILY. ROME, 19th March. A sensation has been produced in Sicily by a most daring attempt by brigands to capture the grandson of Admiral Nelson. The young gentle man is Hon. Victor Albert Nelson Hood, son of the present and third Irish Baron Bridport Nelson. His father is Equerry to the Queen and Duke of Bronto in Sicily. The family estate includes the estate containing the castillo de Monice in Sicily. Victor was residing in the castle when the brigands, who, it is believed, had place. The servants were brave and soon rallied around their young master in defense, and a desparate and prolonged open battle ensued, which resulted in the defeat of the robbers, but only after many of them were disabled by wounds from further fighting.
